TACDC Networking allows for CDC members to meet and learn from other community development professionals and network with affiliated governmental/private-sector funders while identifying industry trends.

EVENT HIGHLIGHT: 2008 CED POLICY SUMMIT

The Texas Community Economic Development Policy Summit brings together leaders and policy-makers from state government, banking, housing and community development. The event is limited to invited participants, including a number of state legislators, agency officials, advocates and CDC practitioners.

The Policy Summit is designed to encourage conversation and discussion around the most pressing public policy issues within community development in Texas.

The 2009 Policy Summit will be held this Fall in Austin, TX.

EVENT HIGHLIGHT: 2010 CED ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The Annual TACDC Community Development Conference provides attendees with the opportunity to attend training events, identify industry trends, and network and learn from other community development professionals.

Conference attendees will include non-profit and for-profit developers from Texas, representatives from the state housing agency, consultants, and others.

The 2010 CED Conference will be held during the Spring in Dallas, TX.
