

FACT SHEET

MISSION STATEMENT

TACDC improves the lives of low and moderate income Texans by strengthening the capacity of community development organizations as well as generating resources and relationships that enhance and sustain the community development industry in Texas.

COMPANY OVERVIEW

The Texas Association of Community Development corporations (TACDC) is a non-profit statewide membership association of Community Development Corporations (CDCs) and related non-profit, government, and for-profit entities engaged in producing affordable housing and community economic development. We advocate for a supportive environment at the local, state, and federal levels on behalf of those that create and preserve homes, jobs, small businesses and other community assets.

ADMINISTRATION

TACDC is governed by a 15-person member-elected, volunteer Board of Directors. 12 represent CDCs and 3 represent non-profit or government organizations that are deeply involved with community development. In addition, the Roundtable Board includes 14 representatives of national financial intermediaries and private lending institutions. The TACDC Roundtable discusses and suggests policy for the Board's consideration and supports TACDC's work with their financial and staff resources.

MEMBERS

Over 150 members throughout the state of Texas. Members include CDCs, Lenders, Government Offices, and other Non-Profit Organizations. Open Membership.

PROGRAMS

Advocacy
Catalyst CDC Capacity Builder
Lone Star Internship Program
Communications
Loan Fund
Membership
Research
401k Plan
Sponsored Insurance Program
(in development)

PUBLICATIONS

TACDC Update (monthly email)
Research Reports (Varies)

EVENTS

Annual Community Development Conference
Annual Texas Community Economic Development Policy Summit

LOCATION

Headquartered in Austin, providing services throughout Texas